

Are you a person with Williams syndrome or a caregiver for a person with Williams syndrome?

Researchers at the Ohio State University are currently looking for people with Williams syndrome ages 8-40 and their caregivers to participate in a study about anxiety.

The person with Williams syndrome does NOT need to have an anxiety disorder to participate.

This study consists one virtual visit on Microsoft Teams. It will gather information on the participant's symptoms of anxiety and the severity of those symptoms. This study will help researchers learn how to better measure anxiety symptoms in people with Williams syndrome and intellectual disability.

Participants will receive a $15 gift card after completing the study.

See if you meet eligibility criteria and consent to the study here:

For more information, please contact Rebecca Margolis at rebecca.margolis@osumc.edu.